Posted 22/07/2011 at 13:00:34(Culture, PC, Tool) When working remotely, you need to have your PCs on and connected to the internet all the time. Well, if you're on a Mac, that is. Connected to the internet is not the same as connected to the web. Most Mac users don't know this. Some of these problems and their fixes will also help you to be more connected and productive in general. First step is to get your Mac to be online all the time. For some reason, it is a hassle to keep your Mac connected all the time to the internet. However, you can't run your programs and check your e-mails without being online. This is a well-known fact but it takes a little work to get your Mac to be online all the time. I did it and I wrote a simple little app, "StayOn". Keep your Mac online all the time. I'll tell you how to do it in a moment. First, if you're a power user, you might want to try the online version of StayOn. The "STAYON Online" works just like StayOn but if you're on a Mac, you'll find that there is not much point in paying for the StayOn apps when you have this online version. It has just as much functionality as StayOn for Mac, the only difference is that it is online. You can download the "STAYON Online" for free from this page. Remember that this is an online app so the Mac has to be connected to the internet all the time. You can use the Mac App store or go directly to the STAYON Online web site. You'll see something like this. Click "Download" and it will download to your Mac. First, I'll explain why you need to do all of this in the first place. You use your Mac to connect to the internet all day. Once your Mac connects, it is online. When you get to the office, you connect the Mac to your internet cable so it can connect to
