A: Para definir o modo de transformar a instrução de comando, só é possível utilizar aquele que estiver entre [hiding] e [narrowing]. [hiding]: Modificar a visibilidade dessa instrução de comando, isto é, dizer que esta instrução de comando é de um tipo não suportado, ou é dizendo para o compilador que não é suportado nenhum tipo para a instrução. [narrowing]: Modificar a compilação da instrução de comando, isto é, fornecer um tipo que tem função equivalente ao tipo passado, mas que aceita mais atributos e caracteres. [narrowing, targeting new]: Decidir como o comando deve ser compilado. Se for fornecido um tipo ou atributo para o comando, essa informação será incluída no comando, sem ser suficiente para a linguagem e o compilador conhecerem o modo como será gerado. O comando será gerado como se tivesse sido passado para o compilador um tipo ou atributo que será conhecido pelo compilador. Veja esta pergunta para dar mais al
