The two sides have haggled over a long-term deal, but there hasn't been any work on the framework of one. On Friday, the team issued a statement saying the Mack camp had sent the Raiders a contract proposal. The Raiders said in the statement they "look forward to further discussions with the purpose of arriving at an agreement," but there hasn't been any new talks. Mack, who has until Tuesday to come to terms with the team or he'll be allowed to play under the tag, is still in first place for NFL defensive player of the year. He has had some talks about a longer contract that might include incentive clauses, and some indication the Raiders are willing to do so. And that could make him less likely to take less money in 2017 if the two sides have a deal. If he was offered the deal
