Each viewer will be able to access a web server, and we need to pass auth information between the viewer and the server. Since the server is a Flex 4 application, the same code base will be used for the viewer. We need to ensure that the server can dynamically generate the identity of the user and also the capabilities of that user. If we do this in the Flex application we need a way to get that to the viewer. We do have alot of experience with Java and Actionscript, but are struggling with how to accomplish the requirements above. We can use Flash or we can use Flex, but we need to have a way for the viewer to talk to the server. A: We ended
