Former secretary of state Condoleezza Rice says the "real test" for Israel and the US is whether "many other states would follow [Israel's] example" of seizing land in the West Bank. "The real test is whether others would follow the example of Israel and annex parts of the West Bank and East Jerusalem," Rice said in an interview with Fox News, which broadcast the interview Tuesday. She was interviewed by Megyn Kelly as part of a program that also featured Cardinal Timothy Dolan and former Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff. The interview was scheduled before Rice canceled her visit to Israel last week following an altercation between Israeli soldiers and two Palestinian boys near the Erez border crossing between Israel and the Gaza Strip. Rice, who spoke at a conference on regional diplomacy on Sunday, said her trip to Israel was cancelled "for security reasons." On Tuesday, Rice said that the Israeli military action was the most dramatic on a recent trip to the country by an American official. "I cannot say it's the only one, but I think it's the most dramatic one," she said. "And what is happening in the West Bank is really provoking a lot of discussion because it's so significant." Rice said that during her visit, "Israel and I had a very good private meeting" with Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu in which they focused on regional security in the Middle East and the peace process, according to Israeli media reports. According to Israeli daily Haaretz, Rice discussed with Netanyahu the possibility of moving the US Embassy to Jerusalem. "The American administration has been clear in stating that Jerusalem is the capital of Israel and that it is a matter for the Israeli government," Rice said, adding that the embassy could move to the US embassy in Jerusalem once that happens. Israeli media has speculated that Rice was not welcome in Israel because she was not sufficiently supportive of Israel, particularly over the country's settlement policy in the West Bank and East Jerusalem. "I think it is a mistake to take only one event. The State Department made a decision
