It was a heady day at the offices of FIFA on the Grand Canal in Dublin, Ireland. As the UEFA Champions League title was being awarded to Real Madrid, it was time to make sure that the FIFA team had nailed the final two, but one of the biggest announcements of the day has to be the inclusion of HyperMotion Technology, a feature which will revolutionise the way FIFA players experience the game. While the latest version of the game has brought new features and refinement to the franchise, such as Pro-Direct Free Kick Creator, Advanced Player Intelligence and Dynamic Player Intensity, its biggest story will be the introduction of 'HyperMotion Technology'. FIFA 21 featured new physics-based motion capture technology that allowed players to step up their performances in real life by applying the same movement patterns to in-game performances. With the arrival of HyperMotion, the same technology will bring the same benefits to Ultimate Team. Sporting Director of FIFA 14 and this year's FIFA World Cup Head of Design, Emilio Viscarolo, and his team went to Dublin today to talk about how the new feature will change the way we play FIFA. "The best way I can describe it is - I've been doing this for a long time, you know? And I've been lucky enough to work at one of the biggest companies in the world. They do movies, they do television, they do all kinds of stuff. And I remember one time I was there and there was a sentence I used to hear all the time, and it was all the time, and it was 'you've got to get your hands on it, you've got to feel it'. Well, I'm so excited now to be able to say that, hey, you, you've got to actually get your hands on it. It's real, you've got to feel it. And I think the time it takes to understand how it works, once you figure that out, I think that's the best thing, to just see it and realise. 'Wow. This actually works.'" And, really, HyperMotion Technology will add a whole new dimension to the game. "I remember coming here from Milan at the start of the career and being in the community, as well, and I remember, when I had that first bit of info from that technology, it was literally a "Yeah, we

EA SPORTS FIFA 10's gameplay innovation re-wrote the playbook, and FIFA 11 took it to the next level. Every team, every player, every stadium - they are built from the ground up for next-generation gameplay. The key to FIFA's survival has always been the Authenticity of its gameplay, and FIFA 12 was the number one best-selling game in the U.S., and the most popular sports videogame of all time. FIFA World XI, the all-star team based on global fan votes, was named after its lineup of iconic world stars, including Lionel Messi, David Beckham and Zlatan Ibrahimovic. FIFA 13, our most popular game in franchise history, broke down previously untouchable barriers like goalkeepers and set new standards for social integration with Ultimate Team. FIFA 14 built on that success with the all-new dynamic 3D World, awarding fans with the ability to create their own personal stories through gameplay interactions with club icons like Cristiano Ronaldo, Diego Maradona, David Villa and many more. FIFA World Cup Soccer™ delivers the most realistic soccer experience on any platform, with more live events, depth and breadth of content than ever before, brought to life through next-generation visuals. Take a look at what our fans have been saying about FIFA: "It's just the right amount of authentic." "FIFA is everything the NHL should be, but isn't." "It gives me a refreshing new way to play FIFA, just enough to keep you coming back, but not so much that it makes it bearable." "Best game in the franchise ever." "At last!" "I'm going to have to remember to hit the auto-pass button when playing for England."
