When deciding which program to use, look for a program that offers all of the things that you want. Designed by Serif As the leading designer of graphics and publishing software, Serif has been around for decades. It has also established a reputation as an innovator and a trusted and friendly part of the software industry. Serif has released Photoshop as a single application. This version of Photoshop marks a big milestone for the company. Previous versions were simply Photoshop Plus or Photoshop Lightroom for the professional market. If you're looking for a single application, this version is well worth your money.

Photoshop is designed to work with Mac and Windows computers. It is available for Windows and for Mac (as shown in Figure 9-1). The program costs anywhere from $50 to $400 (USD) depending on the version. Figure 9-1: The Mac version of Photoshop. Photoshop by Adobe is available on a DVD or on a web download that installs to your hard drive. To install, you simply download the latest program from the Internet. When you run the installation, the program will automatically launch. You'll find the installation instructions in Chapter 2. Designing an Approach to Using Photoshop To use Photoshop effectively, you need to understand Photoshop's features and how they function in your workflow. There are many features that you can find in this program. Here are three levels of complexity for working through the Photoshop toolbox and understanding what each feature does: Advanced features: The more experienced a user is, the more specialized techniques you can perform in Photoshop. Specializing allows you to create specific tasks that you can't do in other applications. You can also find features that are available only in Photoshop. Essential features: Basic tools are used to create a landscape image. Foundation tools: The most powerful tools in Photoshop are foundations. Foundations are tools that are designed to work with one another to help you edit an image easily. So what's the difference between an advanced user and a noob? An advanced user is much more skilled at using the application. A noob is new to the program. An advanced user knows that if you're doing an image with specific artistic goals, you need to work more carefully by using basic tools. Instead of using the regular selection tools, the advanced user selects a brush, button, shape, or a keyboard technique. Similarly

Ashley Naylor Associated Press The owner of two bawdy bars in Paducah, Kentucky, killed two people on Saturday, then himself, according to police and the local health department. The owner of one of the bars, the Texan Saloon, was fatally shot inside the bar, Kentucky State Police said. The other victim, identified as the owner of another bar, was killed in the parking lot. "We're going to make sure this person gets the justice they deserve," Kentucky State Police Lt. Col. Ralph Peters said in a news release. On Friday, the city of Paducah's health director said the local water supply had tested positive for the bacterium that causes Legionnaires' disease. All water systems and water tankers in the city were shut down. Meanwhile, the owner of the two bars had complained about a mild cold, according to a worker at the Texan Saloon. The worker told WPSD-TV: "He said he had a fever and it was really low, so I just told him, 'We'll be okay.'" In a statement released Saturday, officials from the local health department and Paducah city government called the two deaths "an absolute tragedy." Paducah is a city of about 63,000 people, located about 140 miles south of Louisville. "Paducah has not been spared from the many challenges that plague an entire nation," the statement said. "We need to provide more information about the two deaths. We need to make sure that this horrible incident is a learning experience for everyone. This is an absolute tragedy and our hearts go out to the victims and the families of the victims." Contributing: Associated PressQ: What is the formula for calculating anisotropic diffusion? I'm a biologist, and recently I've been using the anisotropic diffusion filter in Photoshop to soften the eyes in some samples. To my surprise I've found that, when I apply the same filter to a picture of a random photo taken from Google Images, I get results that look something like this: What I don't understand is how the two filters can yield such different results. I would like to know what formula goes into the "Set to filter the following range..." field in the Photoshop filter, to determine what the exact value of the k parameter needs to be for an anisotropic diffusion filter to yield soft eyes
