The planets are burning as a deadly jungle virus sweeps across the globe. As a robot named PJ-13, you must use your salvaging laser to repair or salvage several gears and objects that are important for your ship. A string of incidents and encounters has led you to this world. Now you must help Mia discover the reason, unravel the mystery, and find a way back home. WHAT'S NEW

- Minor fixes and improvements.
- Add a new hotkey: Activate the Salvage Circuit, which lets you trigger your salvaging laser with the mousewheel.
- Optional: open the Salvage Circuit by loading a file that requires the circuit to be active.
- Fixed the "Time limit reached" message that was shown even when there was no time limit.
- Fixed several minor bugs.
- An update that makes the game compatible with 14" screens.
- A major overhaul of the user interface and of many of the menus.
- Several improvements, fixes, and streamlining of the audio and visual effects.
- Several fixes to the collision mechanics.
- The mousewheel now changes your active mode (drag to trigger the salvage laser, scroll to adjust the target).
- The player's ship is now a 4X4 grid, which gives more freedom when moving the player around.
- Several tweaks to the movement and camera, allowing for smoother movement while making it possible to get into tight spaces or move across higher surfaces.
- The location of new objects has been slightly changed, meaning the position of your items has been slightly changed.
- The way we detect background objects has been improved.
- Increased the size of the salvaging zone.
- Fixed the animation of the salvaging laser when it's shut off.
- Fixed the animation of the nodes when unplugging them.
- Decreased the number of lines visible when changing gear mode.
- Miscellaneous minor bugs were fixed.

The battle is the true test, so Do you have what it takes to go toe to toe with former Emblee di batters? Are you the master of the shuriken, or can your bat do your talking for you? In this multiplayer head-to-head fighting game to rule them all you have to perform well against opponents online. This is no easy task as each player is facing off against his or her friends in a duel to the death. Are you ready to show them who's the boss?!

see on @liberal.com. How do you describe this photo? M. Point Blank. "I wanted to clean it up and just make the picture more pleasing to look at, but I don't want to make it look like I edited the image in Photoshop." Oh, Muriel. Yeah. Sure. I guess. I mean, what you don't want it look like you edited the image in Photoshop... For someone who is supposed to be a history scholar and a social studies teacher, this comes across very much like a grade school art project. In fact, I would go so far as to say that you'd get more points if you had to trace your fingers through crayon and clay. Because that is all you have done here, to make the image more pleasing to look at, or to give your book a more pleasing presentation. Last time, when I accused you of attempting to snuggle Christine O'Donnell, you immediately began whining about how there's no doctor in your family. And "This is a medical procedure." Yeah. I know. There are innuendos about sticking a penis up somebody's nose, which is less cutting-edge

Rendezvous is a game of mystery and intrigue, of discovery and betrayal, of greed and compassion, of good and evil, and the world of fantasy still is a world of mystery and intrigue. Players explore and interact in the cursed city of The Blight, the only remaining power in the land, with the goal of saving the land from The Blighters. Darkness threatens the lands, and the future is unknown. Heroes and villains lie in wait in The Blight, from the moment you first wake in your new life of intrigue, waiting to see who will be the first to stab your back, the first to betray you and the first to offer your hand. The characters begin by meeting the new village headman who has been appointed to the role after the previous position was vacated by one murdered with their hands tied behind their back. That revelation not only brings turmoil to the village but also to the groups that have aligned themselves with the new village headman, as they did with the previous one. And with each meeting that unfolds, yet another person with secrets to disclose and alliances to make or break. The new village headman knows that he is in a precarious position and that if the Players decide to join with him, they will be working with a man with little power and history as a noble. He does not enjoy the Players' presence and the Players begin to suspect things are not as they first appear. And as the Players meet more and more and reveal more and more, the mysteries of the past begin to unravel, dark truths are discussed, alliances are made and enemies are revealed. Who will break first, the dark secrets of the past or the bonds formed by the Players? A traditional game of seduction, intrigue and betrayal, Players are kept in the dark of their characters' histories as they are slowly pulled in dark directions, and with new friends and foes being formed through a series of events. Are there betrayals and scheming? Are the Players on the right side of the political conflicts? And will the Players survive the horrors they discover, as they learn more and more about the dark forces of the past in their search for the truth? The setting of the game is The Blight. A land engulfed by the Blight, that once was a healthy and prosperous land, is full of twisted, decaying and corrupted buildings. It is the last of the realms, the only one standing against the five with magic and brute force. The society in the game, d41b202975

What's new in Rendezvous: Shadows Of The Past:

Rendezvous: Shadows of the Past is an adventure module for the Dungeons & Dragons role-playing game. Plot summary At the Dustfire Inn, a tavern frequented by adventurers and outcasts alike, a skeletal black monk (Tenebrous) hides himself in an alley between the back room of the inn and the cesspit beyond. Here, he waits for nightfall in the guise of a beggar, a shadow of his former ghoul's existence. Night has fallen at the Dustfire Inn. Even the thieves and scoundrels of the area have long since left the tavern to seek other, cleaner adventures. The patrons sit quietly in the candlelit common room, fearful of surprising the Ghouls, or worse, creating a squeal of metal on metal, alerting the necromancer Ravnica to their presence. The Ghoul with the Eye patch waits in the alley. Quietly he steps into the common room. No one notices the entrance. The room goes to sleep, and eventually the sleeping patrons start to snort and slumber. The Ghoul with the Eye patch is unable to sleep, and waits. He stands for hours, but nothing happens. No one notices him, and he moves closer to the sleeping patrons on the inn's sofa. As the evening approaches midnight the black-robed figure of a monk reaches through the alleys, and leans over the sleeping sleeping patrons. He scoops up the sleeping patrons, tossing them over his shoulder, and brings the troupe of sleeping patrons to the cesspit. A few of them fight the assault by the Ghoul for their lives. There is no room for running or hiding. Several struggle to escape the clutches of the black-robe Ghoul, one of which manages to scream out. Others manage to stumble out of the cesspit, causing the Ghoul to flee in fear. Setting This module centers around the town of Sanvalist and its environs. The module takes place five years after the events of the module The Ghoul with the Eye Patch. Publication history Rendezvous: Shadows of the Past was written by Bruce Nesmith and published in 1993 for the black-and-white line. This entry in the trilogy was nominated for the Origins award for Best Roleplaying Adventure of 1993. Reception Don D'Amassa highly recommended the module, rating it as "A well-constructed dungeon crawl well
