ROCKET WILLY'S SPACESHIP: SPACE SURVIVAL GAME

SHOW YOUR SUPPORT Armory should actually require decent fps for working right... and mine do not so can you get it working in a modern browser?

Sorry about that.

Yes, we've gotten results this time on this game.

Should work on most browsers right now.

Thanks for the feedback :) Quote:The AJAX based Loader was eating up a HUGE amount of resources

The javascript was iterating over this list too often, and doing a whole bunch of additional work

The "NoCache" attribute of the page was being used to apply a "noCache" to the XML document, which I believe was causing this loop.

Thank you, you've discovered this, that's a logic error on my part - I should have handled noCache in the XMLDoc.

Independent Game Hunter (IGN) 7.6/10 - "Too many times you'll be left wanting to kill a small insect on your screen." TouchArcade (5/5) - "I was surprised by how quickly I was blown away by what I got with the game." News of Tron (5/5) - "It's both intense and fun." Glitch City (8/10) - "there's some of the best and most unique gameplay around." 4/5 - " I can't wait to get my fingers dirty in this virtual world."Read the full review Destructoid - "If you're even remotely into video games, you should be aware of Naval Action. You should know how to play the game, too, since it has some pretty smart and unique mechanics."Read the full review 4/5 - "It's intense, it's challenging, it's free to play, and it's made by a creator who's had a lot of success with the Naval Action series." Sogeking - "The sequel to Naval Action: Surface Ships remains my favorite strategy game. I play it regularly and it's definitely a series that I recommend."Read the full review 2/5 - " Naval Action 2 lacks some of the polish and polish of its predecessor. It also feels a bit short." Gamespot (8/10) - "At 10 hours long, you'll be wanting to return again and again." 8/10 - " If you're a fan of MMOs or multiplayer online games, you'll be happy to know Naval Action is here to stay." Famitsu - "If you don't play Naval Action, you've probably missed out on some of the best times you'll ever have playing a game." IGN (9/10) - "It's deep enough to keep you busy for a week if you're an MMO player, and casual enough to keep you entertained for a while." 8.5/10 - "If you're an MMO player, you'll appreciate how well Naval Action integrates seamlessly into that world." Game Revolution - "It's one of those games you can't stop playing for more than a week. Even if you're just playing it online for free." NowGamer - "It's probably the most polished free-to-play online shooter around and the best free MMO on the market."

What's new in Space Survival:

"Lifeboat" has come and gone. More on that later. The immediate concern for many of us is the impending litigation arising from the government's vulture night. This past Saturday, the US Supreme Court agreed to hear the fate of certain of the provisions of the National Defense Authorization Act ("NDAA"), among them Section 1021. The Defense Secretary's new provision is entitled "Authorization for the Use of Military Force to Prevail Against Certain Targeted Non-State Actors" ("AUMF"). It may not yet show up in the NDAA, but Senator Tim Kaine has already introduced an amendment striking Section 1021 from the NDAA. Whatever it is, and I can't imagine it's much more than a hair's breadth from the current detention provisions of the AUMF, neither it nor the pending litigation is going to satisfy the junior Senator from Virginia: The world is a better place because of Colin Powell's speech and the invasion of Iraq. I hope it will be remembered, with gratitude, as an act which really did save lives. Better, but I would concede to the claim that the world was a lesser place that the Senators, especially Dan Burton, might have us believe, if we weren't agnostic about the very existence of kudzu in Florida and if Jack Palms or Olin-Dudda were still with us. In any event, welcome back, John. I hope that if only you had a deep reservoir of self-regard your "apology" will be accepted. You stand in a line, as the great Melville observed, with Huck, Jacky, and probably Miss Ola, though the threshold at which we might reasonably expect an informed apology will be reached in this instance is not quite made clear. No one expects him, or should I say her, to face troops in a press conference. By his own admission, he did not do the research. This makes it difficult to accept the claim that something other than self-righteous bullying was involved in the effort to make you apologize. That, if I am to believe you, was the sole motivation. So I'm going to remain agnostic on the question of whether what you consider a "public relations disaster" is even worth the candle. I'm here to welcome a successor, and so long as you keep the comment section open, I will have that satisfaction. Anyone commenting here, including you, may please reply. Thank you for exercising the

Q: Does spring hibernate jpa support cassandra? Is it possible to use spring jpa cscm with cassandra? A: As jOOQ 7.3.0 already supports Vertx and SST, starting from v3.0.0 you will be able to start using jOOQ with Cassandra. (Disclaimer: I am a contributor to the project) We are really excited to announce that jOOQ support of Cassandra/ Vertx/SST is enabled in v3.0.0-SNAPSHOT that is currently released as part of the jOOQ v7.3.0 release train. Please find below the README for more information on how to quickly add Cassandra support to your projects: From the previous jOOQ release train, we managed to support the Cassandra-as-a-data-source plugin. We were always planning to have native Cassandra support in a more general API, and this is the integration time. The jOOQ Cassandra connector will leverage the Cassandra utility CASSANDRA-JDBC, thus ensuring that your code is Cassandra-agnostic. To migrate to the latest version of jOOQ, update your project dependencies to the latest version. The Good, the Sad, and the Ugly Every product begins as an idea. You have an idea about what you're looking for: a sofa, a kitchen appliance, a drawer organizer. You send your product to a manufacturer to turn it into a real thing. We manufacturers listen to you, make your idea a reality, and you have your best product yet. This is a Good -- which we take great pride in. Then somebody drops the ball. The product you have might not be what you ordered. No tables were misplaced, but there is something wrong with a gift bag, or the insert is tearing. Or maybe the table just doesn't fill to your specs. When something is inaccurate, your product is returned -- and the manufacturer wonders where it has gone. That's the

System Requirements For Space Survival:

[**Note: The game requires a good internet connection, please be patient.] =====
This is an online action-RPG with a lot of depth in both the gameplay and in the storytelling. This game is heavily based on physical combat with enemies, as well as the use of different weapons. The game contains several different dungeons, each with a different theme. The story is non-linear and allows the player to join at anytime. The gameplay is not easy though, requiring stamina and concentration. Each boss fight has its own uniqueness, and the
