A cabinet meeting chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi decided to implement the decision of the Union Cabinet taken last year that made it mandatory for government employees to get 50 per cent reservation in promotions to jobs and public sector undertakings. The decision will also apply to teachers of government schools. The cabinet decision came after Union Cabinet Member for Personnel Satyendar Jain made a presentation on the current status of reservation in promotions and Parliament. Jain informed the Cabinet that as per the current policy, 50 per cent reservation in promotions to jobs and public sector undertakings is not mandatory. The government does not have any mechanism to implement the decision in promotions, Jain said. In view of this, the Cabinet took the decision to implement 50 per cent reservation in promotions to all employees, including teachers in government schools. The Modi government had last year scrapped the Supreme Court's recommendations to provide 50 per cent reservation to Muslims in government jobs and educational institutions. The Supreme Court had last year directed the government to set up a new Expert Committee of the Cabinet and enunciate a policy for providing 50 per cent reservation to Muslims in jobs and educational institutions. The apex court had also directed the government to implement the decision in promotions in government jobs as well as in educational institutions. In its verdict, the apex court said 50 per cent quota must be provided for Muslims in jobs and educational institutions as per the recommendation of the Sachar Committee constituted in 2006. The Sachar Committee had found that Muslims in India are in a "pre-eminent position" when it came to deprivation, even though they represent 19.6 per cent of the population. Noting the implementation of the Supreme Court's decision, Jain said, "The panel of five persons has been constituted to implement the decision. The decision has also been taken for

This musical gained a positive reception in Telugu audience as well as in the Diaspora of Mysore. Hindi dubbed version was also released to some acclaim, and the music was given an 8.5 rating by Indiaglitz. Plot Sivaramamurthi (Sivaraman) is a rich young man of Mysore, who plans to marry his cousin the daughter of a Zamindar. Meanwhile, a rich Nawab also seeks a woman to marry his son and loses in the process. He is unable to find a bride for his son Rustom, and takes the burden of choosing a bride on himself. At the same time, Rustom falls in love with Dandavatam (Dandavatam), his childhood friend's only child. Sivaramamurthi plans to marry his cousin, and on his wedding day, he is informed that Dandavatam is alive. Dandavatam had spent his childhood years in the Nawab's house with Rustom, but was later adopted by a Zamindar to save him from a life of poverty and starvation. The Nawab plans to marry Dandavatam to Rustom, and informs Sivaramamurthi to just give up his 79a2804d6b
